Dry your eyes, take your song out, it's a newborn afternoon
And if you can't recall the singer, you can still recall the tune Dry your eyes and play it slowly, like you're marching off to war
Sing it like you know he'd want it, like we sang it once before

And from the center of the circle to the midst of the waiting crowd
If it ever be forgotten, sing it long and sing it loud
And come dry your eyes

And he taught us more about giving than we ever cared to know
But we came to find the secret and we never let it go And it was more than being holy, oh it was less than being free
And if you can't recall the reason, can you hear the people sing?

Right through the lightning and the thunder, to the dark side of the moon
To that distant falling angel that descended much too soon
And come dry your eyes

Come dry your eyes
