Lonely Phobia

You look forlorn, too tired to yawn
As pale as a moon on a bright afternoon
Your face is drawn
You've got lonely phobia
and I only hope ya get better

You sit and stare, beyond all care
But mirrors don't lie and the look in your eye
Is showing your despair
You've got lonely phobia
and I only hope ya get better

Another love could set you free
But you're afraid (afraid)
To go (to go)
Another love may prove to be
No better than the devil you know

It's late (it's late) at night (at night)
You feel (you feel) uptight (uptight)
Your lover's in bed while the thoughts in your head
Are far (are far) from light (from light)
You've got lonely phobia and I only hope ya get better

Another love could set you free but you're afraid (afraid)
To go (to go)
Another love may prove to be no better than the devil
you know

You look forlorn, too tired to yawn
As pale as a moon on a bright afternoon
Your face is drawn
You've got lonely phobia and I only hope ya get better
You've got lonely phobia and I only hope ya get better
