The morning breaks I fight with myself again
Another night has turned to day
I've listened to the voice of reason it's whispering
Ignoring what he had to say

Then I remembered just what you had told me

(Chorus)

Another day another lesson learned
Some other time, another place, some other way
Remember
All of the love you give will be returned
It's what matters at the end of the day

I took a walk outside, left my door open
I wanted all the world to see
To let them know exactly just where I came from
To let them know that this is me
It's just a world of misunderstandings

(Chorus)

Another day another lesson learned
Some other time, another place, some other way
Remember
All of the love you give will be returned
It's what matters at the end of the day
