"Sonnet XXVII"

I see the skies filled up with lies
Souls ashore flee from below
I think it's enough for me to hide inside
My day is over now
And it burns so cold inside
And the day will come
I'll have you back

Waters run dry
Eyes on me blur contrastingly
I stay alone, no one just me
But why?

My day is over now
And it burns so cold inside
So the end remains
A sad goodbye

It's dark, it's cold
Time will unfold
When will I learn
The reason why
The end remains a sad goodbye
It's still you
I see the skies
All lies
Water runs dry
Goodbye
