We won't waste.
Well, I hate to say it
but there's more to life than what you've been saying over and over again.
We won't waste.
I'll call you out.
I'll leave you on the line tonight.

And we've tried before,
but you don't understand.
And we've tried before.

No we won't stay to stand with open arms.
Besides, tonight my sight is gone.
I feel alive while you rely on eyes.

And now you say
that you're having trouble with your lack of sleep,
and wonder why I need this so bad.
I woke up and drove past here for the past few nights.
Your over reluctance has only pushed me further.

And we've tried before
but you don't understand.
And we've tried before.
I swear you would understand.
