I was afraid to loose my mind
So scared to believe in all I was fighting for Crouching in the corner you found me on my knees....

I felt so frail to cross the line (never been)
So tired to burn and bleed i was trying (to break free) lying to myself to hide all in the cold dark night, again...

So vain
So real
till it will be over....

Refrain:

How many times I was looking for your light
How many times i tried to hold out my hand...
cuz no one but you can free me now

So many times I fought to be myself
to find the power to show you who I am...
no one but you can free me from the dark

I was about to leave behind
all I've just found there, just to survive
cuz emptyness was filling all my life...

so countless times I called your name...
to break off the silence I was afraid of
to come through the night and see the light again...

So frail
So real
say it won't be over...

(Refrain)
