"you'll never see a straight face from me
I've got a problem showing emotion
And sucking up my guts

You'll never get an answer from me
I always keep it stuck in my head
A million words i could have said

You say you're so overwhelmed with grief
And it's because of me

Don't you say, you know i heard you said you know
Don't you say, you know anything about me
Don't you say, you know i heard you said you know
Don't you say, you know anything about me

I'll never show you my frustrations
I'll act accordingly to hold it back
I find it hard to just relax

Please disregard my opinion
I try to only care when i'm asked
It helps to get off my chest

You say you're so overwhelmed with grief
And it's because of me

So,

Don't you say, you know i heard you said you know
Don't you say, you know anything about me
Don't you say, you know i heard you said you know
Don't you say, you know anything about me

The point has been right in front of you, in plain view
The past it does not only repeat
It haunts you,
I can't
Get you the words you said out of my head
Out of my head

Don't you say, you know i heard you said you know
Don't you say, you know anything about me
Don't you say, you know i heard you said you know
Don't you say, you know anything about me"
