You're hiding something
'Cause it's burning through your eyes
I try to get it out but all I hear from you are lies
And I can tell you're going through the motions
I figured you were acting out your part
Once again we're playing up emotion
Which one of us will burn until the end

Catalyst you insist to pull me down
You contradict the fact
That you still want me around
And it's all downhill from here
And it's all downhill from here

Your good intentions slowly turn to bitterness
Re-occurring episodes with each and every kiss
And I can tell you're going through the motions
I figured you were acting out your part
Once again we're playing up emotion
Which one of us will burn until the end

Catalyst you insist to pull me down
You contradict the fact
That you still want me around
And it's all downhill from here
And it's all downhill from here

And I can't believe you pulled it off again
Or notice till it all sets in
You'll deny it till you're at your bitter end
And I can tell you're going through the motions
I figured you were acting out your part
Once again we're playing up emotion
Which one of us will burn until the end

Catalyst you insist to pull me down
You contradict the fact
That you still want me around
And it's all downhill from here
And it's all downhill from here

And you keep pulling me down

Pulling me down, pulling me down
(You contradict the fact)
(That you still want me around)
And it's all downhill from here
And it's all downhill from here
