I've been waiting for a good day
I've been holding back long enough
I've been hurting to tell you some things
It's not the falling of the temperature
That's making all our bones run cold
It's the breeze you make
The presence felt when you're around me

It feels like I'm at an all time low

Slightly bruised and broken
From our head on collision
I've never seen this side of you
Another tragic case of feeling
Bruised and broken
From our head on collision
I've never see this side of you
Another tragic case and I'm still

Waiting for a good day
I think i've held this long enough
I think it's safe to tell you some things
It's not just what you say to people
And it's not the way you look at me
It's the way you present yourself for all of your worst critics to see

Slightly bruised and broken
From our head on collision
I've never seen this side of you
Another tragic case of feeling
Bruised and broken
From our head on collision
I've never see this side of you
Another tragic case

You were gone
All this time you just didn't know it yet

You were gone
All this time you just didn't know it yet

You were gone

And it feels like (feels like) I'm at an all time low

Slightly bruised and broken
From our head on collision
I've never seen this side of you
Another tragic case of feeling
Bruised and broken
From our head on collision
I've never see this side of you
Another tragic case

Another tragic case of feeling
(bruised and broken)
Another tragic case and I'm still
