Staring at my shadow I see the world around me Never felt as if my existence reflects these walls so proudly

Intentions of the past defined so quickly
It's hard to change myself, nevermind all the people around me
I try to push it to the side
Never put the blame on anybody's head but mine

Well I'm still searching for my pride
Well I'll keep searching but there's so many places left for me to hide

If I try
I've tried so hard to change for you.

Intentions of the past defined so quickly
It's hard to change myself, nevermind all the people
around me

It's hard to change myself, nevermind all the people

I try to push it to the side
Never put the blame on anybody's head but mine

Well I'm still searching for my pride
for me to hide

If I try
I've tried so hard to change for you.

Well you know that I've been trying
And you know that I will try

I try to push it to the side
Never put the blame on anybody's head but mine
