Everlasting when I think of you
So contrasting, tell me: Is it meant to be?
It's too thrilling when we rendez-vous
I'm too wailing: Why is this happening to me?

First, impressions, can I trust my heart?
Two confessions, throw these cautions to the wind
Three, reactions, will it fall apart?
Such distractions I know

It's now or never to take a chance with you
Both together we open up the moment that we feel
It's now or never, but can we last forever?
Now's the time to try, never say goodbye

This is magic here I'm covering
But's too tragic if it never comes to be Love's a vision worth discovering
One ambition to share a single harmony

Fortune-telling says forget the past
Stop your dwelling over changing history
You now rise to something that would last
Look inside you and see

It's now or never to take a chance with you
Both (all) together we open up the moment that we feel
It's now or never, why can't we last forever?
Now's the time to try, never say goodbye
