Awoken to nightmares to my dismay
But I'm still here, at least today.
Nothing's changed, I'm still empty inside
I cling to my thoughts, left at my side
Will I make it out alive, will I reach the end Of the tunnel promising safety from the demons in my head (in my head)
I can't remember the last time I cried
Or felt fulfillment in my life
I watched the world grow cold through these empty eyes
And felt it diminish with the sands of time
I felt them take you from me
I felt your release from my hands
I curse a god that's refused to be
A sacrifice to man
I'll still be here
Roaming the world for what I'll never own
It will only cause me grief
And I'll still be left alone
No matter where I go
I look around and see I'm still alone
I'll never make it out alive, I'll never reach the end Of the tunnel promising safety from the demons in my head
All I ever wanted was just to be content
All I've ever loved became dust in the wind
