

Nick Hinton*"End"

Visit "End" on MotoLyrics.com

I used to think that time could only tell
But now you hoist the sails of silence
Burn those bridges burn them well

And now the image gets the chance to really shine
And don't bother about those feelings
Put them right out of your mind

If I see you standing across that road
I think of all the games we used to play
And one day the blaming will be no more
We'll just remember the things we used to say

I never got the chance to say goodbye
But like so many that went before me
You just kicked the dust aside

But now I know in many ways I did the same
Even now that you're free you will always be
Like a brother to me and I'm sorry for letting you down

If I see you standing across that road
I think of all the games we used to play
One day this feeling will be no more
We'll just remember the things we used to say

Visit Nick Hinton page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.