who'll buy my wheat who'll buy my corn to feed my babies when they're born seeds and dirt a prayer for rain that I could use I work the land I watch the sky I talk to God and wonder why but it's the only life I know these farmers blues

I see the seasons come and go sending rain, fire and snow I'm at the mercy of it all this life I choose sometimes I hang my head and cry as that evening train goes by wish it could take me far away from
these farmers blues

the tractor's old the fence is down but on my suit and go to town as prolonged and I know well they might refuse back at home still by my side the one I love with worried eyes waits for me to love away
these farmers blues

sometimes I hang me head and cry
these farmers blues

yoldle boy ho ho deee oh weee ho dee yea ho deee

(how bout' it Hag?)
(farmers blues.)
