I feel it, this tention inside of me
Pressure is presently pushing down on me
The First time, it starts with just you and I'm Repeating myself, but you don't hear me

I can see what you see but is it worth it to me?
its the same old conversation Over and over and over

i get sick and tired of all those lies you tell me
You say those same things to me
Over and over and over

You seem to say your surprised
I see right trough you this time
But I keep telling you
It's over, it's over, it's over

You've taken, these things that belong to me Twisted so tightly, and sorted so carefully The last time, the hands were just you and im Alone in a room with these taunted sheets

I can see what you see
And it wanted to me
the same old conversaton
Over and over and over

I get sick and tired of all those lies told me
You say those same things to me
Over and over and over

You seem to say your surprised
I see right trough you this time
But I keep telling you
It's over, it's over, it's over

you swore, i would regret it

Now thanks to you I can't forget it 'cast all this, 'constint this battle won't even miss you at all Free from the slap that you go

2x

I get sick and tired of all those lies you told me
You say the same things to me
Over and over and over

You seem to say your surprised
I see right trough you this time
But I keep telling you

It's over, it's over, it's over.
