You don't talk to him like you should
You don't walk with him like you should
I guess I'd like to remind you
You better get ready to fit your skin
'Cause there's something about this
That I wish I could change
So count your blessings and see that I'm all over it
Nothing colors the morning like early regret

You don't take to it like you should
So keep your eyes shut
'Cause it looks better that way
And walk away from the footsteps
I told you I swore
I swore that I'd make you pay
'Cause there something about this
That I wish I could change
So count your blessings and see that I'm all over it
Nothing colors the morning like early regret

If you don't kill us both soon I think I'm gonna dissappear
