I seen a dead dead pony running through my dream
I seen the water water catching up with it
I got this cold cold feeling like I wont forget
And I need to make it stop
I need to make it stop

And you
You're sitting on the bathroom floor
Drawing pictures
Making sure it doesn't even show
But your mother's calling on the phone again
What you going to say now that it got so late?

One day you will wake up
And everything that you thought you would be
Will be standing there staring right back at you
And I guess I should have said so
But I swear I didn't even know how to feel about it
When it walked right out on you

And there's a nervous calling running through the walls
And it's getting louder now
It's begging you to please
You know that slow thing humming at the other side of skin
It's what you listen to
When you run out of you

So I hope
I hope you really get it now
'Cause there's a reason why you keep on running out of time
And I just seen it crawling under your skin
And it's making everything feel like it just shouldn't feel

One day you will wake up
And everything that you thought you would be
Will be standing there staring right back at you
And I guess I should have said so
But I swear I didn't even know how to feel about it when It walked right out on you

So hush hush
Be quiet now
Keep yourself under lock and key
You know the one thing that keeps running out?
You should not be chasing it
'Cause it will just leave you falling on your knees
Falling on your knees
