Dumbfounded

We staggered across oceans to new worlds

Came, saw, ultimately conquered all

But what can we as simple mortals do with it?

Meandering aimlessly through a labyrinth of existence

We are all fools

Hell

Most people will simply never learn

Whether it's through stubbornness or stupidity

Most people are simply doomed

But it's not for want of trying

Regardless

For most people the future simply will not arrive

And it's futile to hope otherwise

In spite of our trying

"Those that emerge from the curtained-off mirror

Wiping fluid and blood from their hands

Return to their pews and bow their heads"

Most people will simply never learn

Whether it's through stubbornness or stupidity

Everyone is doomed
