Mountains in minutes in my head

Mountains in minutes in my head

The things I thought but haven't said

Mountains in minutes in my head

You lost them, you found them

And still you can't surmount them

You make them, you break them

And yet you'll never take them

Mountains in minutes in my head

Volcanoes every word he said

Mountains in minutes in my head

Volcanoes underneath my bed

My mood ever changing

It needs some re-arranging

But then in the morning

It's gone without a warning

The bells ring, it's sunday

Here comes another funday

A whole world to be taken

I feel like china breaking

Mountains in my head

You lost them, you found them

And still you won't surmount them

You've seen them, you've heard them

And yet you don't deserve them

Mountains in my head
