

No Harm Done

"Once Loved Portrait"

Visit "Once Loved Portrait" on MotoLyrics.com

You greet me with your back turned conversations with unparted lips. fight so hard to avoid eye contact. this night of, this night of silence is stalked by a raven. it keeps a close eye as time drops these feelings out. miles don't seem to be the only thing that parts us it is trying to remember the love that we lost. everything about you is now normal to me and no longer fuels my heart. the once loved portrait of you kills my sleep + as i gaze upon the once loved smile. everything about you is now normal to me. my pillowcases are my confessions they bring guilt to my conscience when your head lies upon them. i plead with ceilings for all the answers tell me, am i alone with these tho

Visit No Harm Done page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.