Looking down, 30,000 miles above the ground, the guy behind me says he's scared to death.
Can't sit still and he's short of breath, but no one hears him crying.

He says that we're gonna crash, but not today someday soon you'll see.

Don't you know? It's not like anybody cares at all. We all do what we can not to fall. Sometimes we just have to learn to crawl, and stay strong.

Looking up, $30,000 out of luck, let me feed the addiction one more time.
Spin the wheel, let me do another line, please excuse my shaking.

It says that we're gonna carsh, but not today someday soon you'll see.

Don't you know? It's not like anybody cares at all. We all do what we can not to fall. Sometimes we just have to learn to crawl, and stay strong.

And I feel the world is too big, too big to take on all alone. There's 2 things to remember now, don't let them see you frown, don't ever let them see you bleed when the world is too much.

Don't you know? It's not like anybody cares at all. We all do what we can not to fall. Sometimes we just have to learn to crawl, and stay strong
