Hey babe look I'm crawling around in your hair
Banging clanging hanging in thin white air
My eyes they sparkle like the rocks they sell at the station
High on loss and high on alienation

Steal the flowers, move a mountain

I feel expensive but my feelings are way to cheap
Eyes wide open while I'm walking around in my sleep

I think you should come and steal my heart
I think you should come and steal my heart

Blue above but blue don't come for free
My heart is broken and the one who broke it was me

Kill these flowers, kick this mountain

I think you should come and steal my heart
I think you should come and steal my heart
I think you should come and steal my heart
I think you should come and steal my heart

Cause I don't want nobody around me
Unless that someone is walking
And not just doing the talking
I don't need a new place to fall
It's nothing or all
And that's why I am flying
Slowly surely dying

I think you should come and steal my heart
I think you should come and steal my heart
