before i saw your face it was done you were always the one before i knew your name it had begun

i follow your eyes as they're kissing mine and it's there i want to fall asleep the light begins to fall upon my crooked mind you're the one i thought i'd never meet and by the way i'd like to tell you after all that i have done i spent every moment looking for you i cross the shadow and step into your sun your faces leave their traces in the places where we meet and all the places we will go and it's never been so easy as i'm down on bended knee a husband and a wife will know

some things i recognize some things i don't and some things i don't want to know but hallelujah for the simple things your head upon my chest without that there just is no hope

after all that i have
i cross the shadow and step into

tomorrow i will be the first to rise and i'll place my hand upon your cheek
