So I see how it works
We're all just a bunch of jerks suited to our own reality

With the standards of hate
we consistently berate hoping that nobody will see

Survival does depend on us

It is painfully clear
We are nothing
Without a scab to pick on
Without a rock to kick on.

It is painfully clear
We want something
We want a ground to spit on
We want to think that we're strong.

So I see how it works
Distance can have it's perks
It's best to stay just out of reach.

With the standards of hate
we consistently vasilate
Avoiding the lessons that teach

Cause we are transparent and we have feelings and being transparent means being revealing.

So many things we want to master.
So many question that's to ask.
But we're so afraid that they'll take us to task now.

Gonna take you to task now.

It is painfully clear
We are nothing
Without a scab to pick on

Without a rock to kick on.

It is painfully clear
We want something
We want a ground to spit on
We want to think that we're strong.
