She dying to be something more
Than pretty eye without a name
Looking past the pages
This stories not for you

When lying turns to sickness
Splitting friends to factions
Over pretty eyes
These stars have fallen from behind them now

This is, For all
My past mistakes that I've made
This is, My call
Before I stumble And I fall

He's feeling hollow and alone
Sitting tight he waits for change
And even if it not
She'll never feel the same

In a room filled up with friends
Betrayal on his mind tonight
Hatred in is eyes
This fires never burned so bright inside them now

This is, For all
My past mistakes that I've made
This is, My call
Before I stumble And I fall

I can see
These clearly now
The smoke has lifted off these battle ground
I can see
We've all changed now
And all that's left to do is to wonder how
