"You're Bleeding"

You've got the beauty,
but that don't mean a thing
A bland reciprocation, but that dosen't bother me You're happier with lights on underneath a darkened sky Only in the spotlight can you tell me of your crimes I understand the situation, but I can't Seem to understand the motivations you once had
I recall a message I once left behind a screen
I was entranced,
when you were never there for me
You're draining, you're draining me,
I'm not a tub
What ever happened to the girl I used to hold?

I held in such a high regard Where is the girl who had it all?
I used to think I wasn't worthy of your cause
I used to feel so lucky Until the day I felt a weakness in my arms
I knew from where it had been coming You're bleeding, you're bleeding me,
I can recall
The passions you once had,
where did they go?
I knew a girl who had it all?
I knew a girl where did she go?
