Give me your hand, help me to stand show me the way into your land burn all the bricks, smash stones and sticks to build the castle we belong I want you to know, that you are my one and only help

Seems to be good, preparing the wood building a home, where we once stood watching it grow, I want you to show that we can be free, and just we two know

Plant our own tree, that they all can see that we can do it on our own collecting the tools, make our own rules to show them all where we belong you can ignore all the laughter and the pain that our ground is still not plain, we don't need a helping hand, you can be sure we don't build our home on sand
