I built my life like my bike on a rigid frame
Nothing bends, it only breaks into pieces and pieces
I wait for hope to arrive but it never came Leaving me with only pain inside, I'm going off the deep end

I built my life on a rigid frame
So nothing bends it only breaks into pieces and pieces
I waited for hope to arrive but it never came Leaving me with only pain inside, I'm going off the
deep end

Holding on is harder than it seems
When you're reaching for so much more
Seems so much easier to just give in
When you're reaching for so much more

Another wasted Saturday so here I stay
But nothing seems to ever change, anyway, hey
All this hype about life being great Where's the love for me these days, I'm goin' off the
deep end

Holding on is harder than it seems
When you're reaching for so much more
Seems so much easier to just give in
When you're reaching for so much more
Go

Holding on is harder than it seems
When you're reaching for so much more
Seems so much easier to just give in
When you're reaching for so much more
