Everything has changed!
We become what we hate
And we speak in codes,
Only to decipher reflections in bathroom mirrors
Are so greatly different on the inside
Am I even facing myself anymore
Well I don't know
Am I living a lie?

When we become what we hate,
We become what we detest,
Friends and enemies
Thin lines and time lines
And I remember when I didn't feel it
No, I remember when it didn't feel like this
This way, This way I'll never change
I'll never change

And we enter into what we hate
We become what we detest
We have changed and this is growing up
This is growing old
Becoming how we were raised
And this is growing up
And this is growing old
We have changed
This is growing up
We have changed

Look how we were raised
And this is growing old
Become how we were raised
Oh my how we've changed
And this is growing up
Become how we were raised
We have changed
And this is growing old,
Look how we have changed

We have changed
