I gave to you all that you could ever need
And in return you gave me disrespect and greed
Now I've had wounds before, not as deep as these
So now you crawl away on your hands and knees

You're never coming back, never coming back
You're never coming back, never coming back
I'm choosing isolation into the desperation

You gave yourself to me, that was another lie
And with each lie another part of me would die
To trust in you has proved to me I was a fool
Through suffering you learn and now I make the rules

You're never coming back, never coming back
You're never coming back, never coming back
I'm choosing isolation into the desperation
I'm choosing isolation into the desperation

I live by my mistakes
And learned all the hurt it takes
To overcome and grow
There's things you need to know
