You showed me how to laugh through all of my tears
You are my inspiration
Mountains of doubt and fear at once have all disappeared
With you next to, they're no longer here

You have been a rock that I could lean on
You have filled my lonely heart with song
I never could've made this kind of journey all alone
Just beyond the place that they call Heaven
We have finally found a place where we belong
Finally, we are home

I thought that dreams were never meant to come true
Fancy and foolish grand illusions
But you reached inside my soul and turned my spirit around
With you, I know the dream is happening now

You have been a rock that I could lean on
You have filled my lonely heart with song
I never could've made this kind of journey all alone
Just beyond the place that they call Heaven
We have finally found a place where we belong
Finally, we are home
I know we are home
