You showed me how to laugh though all of my tears
You, all my inspiration
Mountains of doubt and fear at once of all disappear
With you next to me then no longer here

You have been a rock that I could lean on
You have filled my lonely heart with song
I never could have made this kind of journey all alone
Just beyond that place that they call "heaven"
We have found a place where we belong
Finally we are home

I thought that dreams were never meant to come true
Fancy and foolish grand illusions but you reached inside my soul
And turned my spirit around

With you I know that dream is happening now

You have been a rock that I could lean on
You have filled my lonely heart with song
I never could have made this kind of journey all alone
Just beyond that place that they call "heaven"
We have found the place where we belong
Finally we are home

I know
We are home
