So, with even the lights down I can see my wounds
And even the blue sky just appears less blue
And I am afraid, I am afraid
And now, I didn't always have this old man's face
And I didn't always live alone this way
I had a time
I had a place

But there was a time
And there was a moment
When I was electric
I was electric
Then when I find
I feel like I'm frozen
But I was electric, was electric

Now, even the love birds that I watch don't sing
I heard them say,
"Love is just a cold, crass thing"
Well, I was alive
Now I'm just waiting

But there was a time
And there was a moment
When I was electric
I was electric
Then when I find
I feel like I'm frozen
But I was electric, was electric

I was a boy with a balloon
On tippy toes
A Sunday suit
I sort of changed in a different way
It was like a chance that blew away

But there was a time
And there was a moment
When I was electric
I was electric
Then when I find
I feel like I'm frozen

But I was electric, was electric
I was electric, was electric
I sort of changed in a different way
It was like a chance that blew away
But there was a moment
When I was electric
