Boredom envelops me
Drifting comatose me
Eyes fight to stay open
Yawns take control
My knees easily slides and glide
Again I'm an outsider
Quietly observing
Daydreams floating through my head
Slipping in and out
Ashtrays of the sun I share
My energy drains this own length

Down down deeper down
The cure to her infection
Down down deeper down
Until she finds perfection
Leave all her lovers hurt
'cause there all seen with frost
Leave all the rainbows
And the things she knows she's lost
And always flows the water
Refusing interference
And always flows the water
And nature coaxes sleep
And nature coaxes sleep

Carps only a moment
Run fast through the river
Where strained gracefully shiner
And sunbeams dance and glimmer
Grace layer at the river's edge
Take a deep breath
Dive through beckoning leisure
Start feeling moist and pure

Down down deeper down
The cure to her infection
Down down deeper down
Until she finds perfection
'cause there all seen with frost
Leave all the rainbows

And the things she knows she's lost
And always flows the water
Refusing interference
And always flows the water
And nature coaxes sleep
And nature coaxes sleep

Peace and comes an unseen solitude
Folding slowly round me
Relax perplexions
Soul makes connections
Green estranged as seaweed weaven
It helps to stop the grieving
Hypnotized I close my eyes
Can't see 'cause there's no rainbows for me

Down down deeper down
Down down deeper down
