So why does it happen
It disintegrates with time
Thermodynamics is tragically defined
With entropy's arrow the elegance concealed Life and experience becoming so much less than real

In love everlasting hold tightly to the spark
Though the darkness surrounds you remember who you are
I found it here always and I hope you find it too
In love everlasting the angels will bring it back to you

A song of perception to navigate your way
More precious each moment before it slips away
No concessions to sorrow there's power in your dreams
Your life is a gift filled with infinite possibilities

In love everlasting the sentience in the spark
In the end all that matters follows who you are
I found it here always and I hope you'll find it too
In love everlasting the angels are calling back to you

Both in science and history we express what we we know
But it's a guess I confess that you pleaded it best (?)
And the truth is tomorrow you must first undergo
You cannot claim godhood to know the unknown
In the central definition that no writers can see (?)
Right and wrong separated by a few degrees
So your knowledge is strength but it's not absolute
You must open your mind to the beautiful truth

In love everlasting hold tightly to the spark
Though the darkness surrounds you remember who
you are
I found it here always and I hope you find it too
In love everlasting the angels are standing next to you

In love everlasting hold tightly to the spark
Though the darkness is all around you remember who
you are

I found it here always and I hope you'll find it too
In love everlasting the angels will bring this back to you

In love everlasting the sentience in the spark
In the end all that matters believes in who you are
I found it here always and I hope you know it's true
In love everlasting the angels are singing back to you
