Stand behind me
And above me
With voices plaguing
My deepest thoughts
And the visions
They keep coming
I keep hearing
My angel fall

In a dream
Without a future
Without a breath
To take away
And my resolve;
A higher being
With wings of ash
And eyes of fire

Don't blame me, I'm just the messenger
I don't know what this message means
Don't blame me, I'm just the messenger
I'm just the messenger don't blame me

As things will happen in this life
With no resolution,
The duality in men
Requires constitution.
For the shame of hatred spent
Might endure your sorrows
If your higher self is shackled
By your binary soul

Creation's flaw;
The angels fell
Without his grace
To light our path
I am the mirror
I am the destiny
I am the herald
Who points the way

Don't blame me, I'm just the messenger

I don't know what this message means
Don't blame me, I'm just the messenger
I'm just the messenger don't blame me

As things will happen in this life
With no resolution,
The duality in men
Requires constitution.
For the shame of hatred spent
Might endure your sorrows
If your higher self is shackled
By your binary soul

The wounds I bear
Have left me humbled
Once a child of divinity,
But if my breathing
Days be numbered,
Will I bring this victory?

Don't blame me, I'm just the messenger
I don't know what this message means
Don't blame me, I'm just the messenger
I'm just the messenger don't blame me

As things will happen in this life
With no resolution,
The duality in men
Requires constitution.
For the shame of hatred spent
Might endure your sorrows
If your higher self is shackled
By your binary soul
