How many paths must a man walk down until you call him a man - and if it Isn't good i understand - with different rights - the days to settle down,
To hear what's going low - there's a bitter old ghost and a side trail every Morning - how many paths must a man walk down until you call him a man - and When it comes to this - easily for those with beer, honey - waiting - the Days to settle down, to hear what's going low - and it's in the wind - the Spirit blowing the answer to an asshole's face - not to swear for nothing,
In synchronicity that's even still perfect - there's a bitter old ghost and
A side trail every morning
