further beyond the distance i see, across salt drenched, battered streets a place where i can separate, all the waiting and pain of broken eyes it's ever so slowly growing in size realize my instinctual drive- for wanting ever drive- wishing you all the better while i strive in letting my soul drive-for wanting forever drive wishing you all the better while i try in separating my drive
time has a tendency to magnify, the distance opposed upon you and i i am my own fuel supply, for breaking the walls and bending the beams making a bridge to reachable dreams, it is my instinctual drive for wanting forever
drive- wishing you all the better
drive- for wanting forever
drive- wishing you all the better while i strive in separating my
drive
when time is worn, when time is all worn down, my burden drops to the ground and i see all stars align, and we all stand divine all i have is my drive (stand divine)
drive
