"God Loves, Man Kills"

God loves, man kills all that he makes god loves, god gives man hates, man takes Indiscriminately without discretion we destroy his creation blessed with a curse a knack for Decay where life exists man strips it away God loves, man kills our actions clear the path That'll lead to our death the age of man will come to an end again and again we breed Destruction we claim the knowledge of good and evil we claim to know what's best for our People and so we act out with a false sense of righteousness and we kill under selfish pretense God loves, man kills by nature, by design to create, to destroy both talents well refined Oblivious to the pain and decadence we cause on this course we remain until our actions kill Us all we stumble forward blindly destroying without a tear poor fallible mankind repent, for The end is near God loves, man kills
