I dreamed of walking down the streets at night only dragging hope and I was following a powder blue light down a tender slope I lost my voice and all the streets were bare I lost my footing as I hit time square, but I found you there
All of these voices here inside my head gently call your name
I searched for hours here inside my bed but I search in vain
You've lived within me from the very start Here in the shadows of my twisted heart and I found you there Allison catch me I'm falling so desperately calling to you again
Wont you come find me tonight Allison Believing only in your sweet caress I fall down on my knees
I'd find my courage as you life long guest so wont you take me please Allison catch me I'm falling so desperately calling to
you again
Wont you come find me tonight
All the stars up in the sky are witnesses they can't deny that my love for you is truer than my heart has ever known
So if you feel alone at night just stare into that star filled sky
Their glowing lights exactly how might heart will burn for you forever more Allison
I dreamed of walking down the streets last night with you by my side
And you were covered in a powder white light like some heavenly bride
I found my voice and you laid down your hair
And now forever is what we will share and you can find me there with Allison Catch me I'm falling so desperately calling to you again wont you come find me tonight with Allison catch me I'm falling so desperately calling to you again wont you come find me tonight Allison.
