has it really been so long that we forget what it meant to be young as life goes on remember when we were young
all the things we could do used to think the world was ours when did that change for you?
can you recall
your first romance
how innocent it felt to dance, but why does it
change over time
remember when we were young,
all the things we could do,
why did that change for you?
everything felt so real is it too late to try and remember how that feels
i knew the world was ours
i remember when we were young everything was so real it's not too late to try to remember how that feels
