The eastern light says
don't get up to let me in i'll make my way in just fine sown in the seed of its own initiative they say i'm blinded by faith and grace is a flawed design

Full Chorus:

In pain we all suggest (that) we have no faults against We stand accused in denial of self

So I take my hammer then beat at my chest until Iâ'm standing there with my heart in my hands

The eastern light says
all fear can do is burn your walls down

To weaken the structure following pride is never to find it seems thereâ's a consistency from the shadows return to claim what can't be seen

Interceding what's been spoken Guide my thoughts on back to Find these feelings left unopened And lock them up for good

The work of my hands
The bridge in my mind that Is never quite built Indwells in the silence and
This work of my hands
The bridge in my mind
