Officer you have to believe me
I didn't kill my wife
Please settle down sir just start from the beginning And tell us what happened to Sophie

Our baggage was packed tight the essentials were gathered and prepared This was the Honeymoon trip we had been planning for months
Skinny-dipping in the hot springs of the Kootenay Rockies that was her dream
The earth moist beneath our boots crumbled as we set out that morning Long eerie shadows stretched out and crawled towards us

A simple meal once camp had been set Afterwards we curled together before the fire
As darkness settled the two of us became one Our subtle moans leaked past the night and across the vast unknown plains

As our sweat dried we clung together and drifted off into sleep
A rustle in the distance startled me awake
I turned towards Sophie to initiate another round Overtaken by her vulnerability

But the vacuous silence she emit puzzled me until I turned on the flashlight
All that was left of my wife was a bloodied upper torso torn and fragmented

That's when I first heard it, the ominous black beast Howling and grunting just out of sight Then nothing for a minute until the hairy creature attacked again
It had come back for what was left of Sophie

Shivering naked and caked with her blood
I drifted off as I waited for morning I then awoke to you guys screaming

Please officer you have to believe me
