When we die
Where will we go?
Will it be heaven?
Or through hell's door?
Thy soul shall find itself going through

A journey into fear
For those who do not know
You'll drown in your own tears
And you will die alone

When we die
What will we receive?
An angel's blessing?
Or the devil's kiss?
Thy soul shall find itself going through

A journey into fear
For those who do not know
You'll drown in your own tears
And you will die alone

Death stares at you, with her grim face
Her icy breath, conceals your fate
You fade away, your life is gone
Death leaves you breathless, her work is done

When we die
What happens then?
Will our spirits go on?
Or is it forever the end?
Thy soul shall find itself going through

A journey into fear
For those who do not know
You'll drown in your own tears
And you will die alone
