(Wendy Thatcher)

Winding crazy slow and lazy Where you're going from where you've been Miss you Mississippi rolling through the greenest valleys
Calling my name cross the misty Delta sky Old muddy blues going from where you choose Miss you Mississippi, miss you.

River moonlight on a tune night no place I would rather be Miss you Mississippi teasing passed the willow weep trees
Tearing the pending limbs to try and slow you down Mirror to the sky I was born and mean to die there Miss you Mississippi, miss you Mississippi...
