Have we lost the feeling or are we just losing touch.
Is it to late to say, is it to late to say, I've had enough
Of all this in my life. We've come this far I think we'll be alright.
Even though were losing grip...

"Hold on just a little bit longer"
I've heard this a million times.
Get up, get out show them with the way you move.
I'm still at sixes and sevens.
It's been so long and we stick together.
This is our contract of company.

It's just something I can't let go.
Were armed to the teeth, intentions as pure as the driven snow.

"Hold on just a little bit longer"
I've heard this a million times.
Get up, get out show them with the way you move.
And if you hold on,
I'm still at sixes and sevens.
It's been so long and we stick together.
This is our contract of company.

We won't give up, it's been years and we haven't missed a beat.

We will stand up for everything that we believe.

Keep on running
We'll keep coming

"Hold on just a little bit longer"
I've heard this a million times.
Get up, get out show them with the way you move.
And if you hold on,
I'm still at sixes and sevens.
It's been so long and we stick together.
This is our contract of company.

This isn't where our story starts

But I know it's how it will end.
Dressed to the nines in a room full of friends.
And ohh I want you to know you mean so much to me.
Together were always hand an hand,
Thank you for making us feel like family.

This is just where we belong, like thorns on a rose we have proven strong.
These moments frozen in time, by a positive state of mind.

We've always done this, you know it's not the last time.
We've done nothing wrong and this surely makes our lives so much easier
We haven't lost this feeling yet.
More like mending the bridges that brought us straight to it.
