Wanted more than you could ever have
With time by our side then maybe we'd realise
What is lost when you leave me
My faith in you could never be restored

I gave it all you wanted more
You took all you ever saw
Now I'm bleeding in the door
Time haunts us all

Now I'm trying to find my place
In this world that I can't face
Another time, another place, another memory
The lines of my heart you can't trace
My life remains touched by grace
Another time, another place, another memory

While it might never be the same
Still feel the pain when I hear your name
But that was then and this is now
I don't know why I don't care how

I gave it all you wanted more
You took all you ever saw
Now I'm bleeding in the door
Time haunts us all

Now I'm trying to find my place
In this world that I can't face
Another time, another place, another memory
The lines of my heart you can't trace
My life remains touched by grace
Another time, another place, another memory

My tears are bitter they taste
Just like I knew they would
How was I meant to cope
Now you know, now you know
Would it ever stop, you lied
Televised my surprise
What was I to do

Now you know

Now I'm trying to find my place
In this world that I can't face
Another time, another place, another memory
The lines of my heart you can't trace
My life remains touched by grace
Another time, another place, another memory

Now I'm trying to find my place
In this world that I can't face
Another time, another place, another memory
The lines of my heart you can't trace
My life remains touched by grace
Another time, another place, another memory
