You said love is a disease
Restless in it's company
Like a river to the sea
Is where you run

You say that all the birds have flown
The heart and entity turn to stone
There is comfort in this great unknown

And all that you've known
And all that you've saved
All that you've known
Will someday change

You say forgiveness don't last long
You hear the ticking of the bomb
Leaves you wondering where it all went wrong

And all that you've known
And all that you've saved
All that you've known
Will someday change
