The waves that crash down your face burn your eyes red and i'll seperate the glasses Because i know you hate them all but you don't know if you still care and i'm breaking down the sand walls to save your drowning heart sing me to sleep at night you'll fill me with thoughts of you and him you'll burn my insides blow me that goodnite kiss Let me know how much you don't love me you'll burn my insides when you said "it's over" you broke our hearts together {like the cigarette you smoke suck me in just to blow me out} and one by one things all changed and with five words we died whisper those five sweet words you'll let me know how much you don't love me you'll burn my insides you'll burn you'll burn you'll burn
