

Outspoken

"Loose End"

Visit "Loose End" on MotoLyrics.com

I never meant to be this silent
But I think you kind of wanted me to
And I never meant to be this lonely
Fact that's why I'm here telling you
If you wanna be out, then somebody please ring the bell
One "din" would solve the bout maybe
We could begin while you go on fighting the world
For everyone else's problems so keep dreaming

So deep is the pride that swallows this life
It's closing in way over my head, another, another
Loose end keeps haunting me, so keep away from me
Cause everyday you've given me has,
Another, another loose end that I gotta tie up

Now there's much that has changed in me
Since the end of that year
There's not much to be said for taking time to be hearing
These words that I say from so far, far away
This rhetorical, wonderful, magical, laughable life
Is discovering the situations clear
Everything seems to be over, so stop dreaming

So deep is the pride that swallows this life
It's closing in way over my head, another, another
Loose end keeps haunting me, so keep away from me
Cause every day you've given me has no, no
No temporary variety can change what you're afraid to Show if you can't find me you won't know where to run
When it all falls down

So deep is the pride that swallows this life
It's closing in way over my head, another, another
Loose end keeps haunting me, so keep away from me
Cause everyday you've given me has,
Another, another loose end that I gotta tie up

Visit Outspoken page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.

